

Line up

A fun competition where you have to line up by date of birth - or whatever else you come up with.

- Randomly divide the class into two teams
- The two teams must now line up after their date of birth; if you were born on January 1, you must be at the forefront. The year does not count only day and month.
- Do not use words to communicate - use only hands, feet or facial expressions.
- When the teams think they are done, they sit down (still in a row).
- When both teams have sat down, they take turns saying their date of birth aloud so you can see if the order is correct.
- The team who has the most correct row wins. If the teams have equally good rows the fastest team win.
- A bonus of this competition is that you now know each other's birthdays.
